drefenn & kyns with verb-noun bos.

Karesk 936 A.D.

This tale was first written for the 1983 Gorsedh Kernow Cornish Language Prose Competition and was awarded first place. It was later serialised to form the story back ground for the KDL Second Grade Course, which is now the Second/Third Grade Course. It is based on the historical expulsion of the Cornish from Exeter by Athelstan, but all the characters in the story, except Bishop Asser and King Athelstan are fictitious.

A. Yn unn² with verb noun.

Hi a² gewsis yn unn hwystra. She spoke in a whisper.

The verb-noun used in this way is, in fact, more noun than verb, and the whole phrase acts as an adverb to show how the action of the main verb is carried out. Here are more examples:

Ev a² dheuth yn unn² boenya. He came at a run (He ran up.)

Hi eth yn unn fistena. She went in a hurry. (She hurried off.)

There are a number of ways of expressing these adverbial phrases in English. The exercise below shows some of them.

Exercise 1. Translate the following sentences into Cornish, using one of the phrases starting with yn unn² which are given below. In some cases two English versions are given, one normal English, the other a little closer to the Cornish.

- 1) He went into the house at a walk. (He walked into the house.)
- 2) He went to Truro in a hurry. (He hurried to Truro.)
- 3) They worked in a tiring way.
- 4) He laughed playfully.
- 5) They spoke in a whisper.
- 6) She talked with a song. (in a sing-song voice).
- 7) He went down (yn-nans) the hill sliding. (He slid down the hill)
- 8) They went to New Zealand sailing. (They sailed to N.Z.)

yn unn² gerdhes; yn unn skwitha; yn unn hwystra; yn unn slynkya; yn unn fistena; yn unn² wari; yn unn² gana; yn unn² woelya.

B. Imperfect of bos (to be). As with the present tense (Dyskans 12), there is a short and long form, with the long form showing where a person/thing was, or what it was doing. The short form shows who, what, or how he/she/it was.

Long form.

esen	I was/used to be.	esen	We were etc.
eses	You were etc.	esewgh	You were etc.
esa	He/She/It was etc.	esens	They were etc.

Short form.

en	I was/used to be.	en	We were etc.
es	You were etc.	ewgh	You were etc.
o	He/she/It was etc.	ens	They were etc..

The long forms are used in the present and imperfect tenses to translate "There is/are/was/were":

Nyns esa gorthyp. There was no answer.

These forms are often used with suffixed pronouns as given in dyskans 12 and there is an example of another one in the story:

Ass ova skwith! How tired he was!

Exercise 2. Translate the following into Cornish.

- 1) I was very troubled.
- 2) We were in Exeter.
- 3) They were Cornish.
- 4) The Cornish were in Exeter.
- 5) You were Tewdar's mother.
- 6) There was no sign of life.
- 7) I was working in the field.
- 8) How tired he was!
- 9) We were tired also.
- 10) His father was the leader.

C. Pluperfect of bos.

bien	I had been.	bien	We had been.
bies	You had been.	biewgh	You had been.
bia	He/She/It had been.	biens	They had been.

The perfect verbal particle re is commonly used with the pluperfect tense in nominal sentences, though a² is used when the tense is used conditionally. (“I would be” etc. This will be dealt with later, dyskans 31.) A² is also possible, though less usual, with the pluperfect use. Although re normally causes second state mutation, it does not do so when used with bos.

In verbal sentences the particle y⁵ is used.

The normal negative particle is ny².

Tewdar re bia ow konis.	Tewdar had been working.
My re bia yn Aberfal.	I had been in Falmouth.
Y⁵ fien trist kyns dha² weles.	I had been sad before seeing you.
Y⁵ fiens i yn Truru.	They had been in Truro.
Ny² via ev ow kewsel.	He had not been talking.

Exercise 3. Translate the following into Cornish.

- 1) The Cornish had been in Exeter.
- 2) Tewdar had been working since the sun rose.
- 3) We had been ill.
- 4) Asser had been Bishop of Exeter.
- 5) He had been sitting in the corner.
- 6) I had been in Tewdar’s house.
- 7) Tewdar’s father had been in the monastery.
- 8) They had been too late.
- 9) She had been sitting on the stool.
- 10) There had been no sign of life on his face.

D. Pluperfect of gul.

gwrussen	I had done/made.	gwrussen	We had done/made.
gwrusses	You had done/made.	gwrussewgh	You had done/made.
gwrussa	He/she/It had done/made.	gwrussens	They had done/made.

Verbal particles are as shown above for bos except that re² does cause the normal second state mutation. As you know, gul can be used as a verb by itself, or as an auxiliary with other verbs.

Mamm Tewdar re² wrussa sevel.	Tewdar’s mother had got up.
An² Gernowyon re wrussa triga yn Karesk.	The Cornish had lived in Exeter.
Y⁵ hwrussen vy mos dhe’n managhti.	I had gone to the monastery.
My re² wrussa gweles fos Karesk.	I had seen the wall of Exeter.
Ny² wrussens i triga yn Kernow.	They had not lived in Cornwall.

Exercise 4. Translate the following into Cornish, using the pluperfect tense of gul.

- 1) The Cornish had lived there many years.
- 2) Tewdar had gone to see his grandfather.
- 3) His mother had sat on the stool by his bed.
- 4) The mother had not answered.
- 5) The priest had shriven (absolved) the old man.
- 6) We had lived in Cornwall in the time of Bishop Asser.
- 7) She had stood up slowly.
- 8) He had drunk the beer.
- 9) I had come to Exeter twenty years ago.
- 10) We had walked by the city wall.

E. Drefenn (because) and kyns (before) with bos and noun subject

A number of prepositions, including drefenn and kyns can govern verb-nouns just like normal nouns, but they are often best translated by a clause in English, which may be any tense, according to the context.

drefenn bos Kembro an Epskop da ma.

because this good Bishop is/was a Welshman drefenn bos Tewdar skwith. because Tewdar is/was tired.

This construction can only be used with the verb “bos” and with a noun subject. The same construction is used with “kyns.”

kyns bos Asser Epskop Karesk before Asser was Bishop of Exeter.

Exercise 5. Translate into Cornish.

- | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| 1) because his grandfather was ill. | 7) before Tewdar was a man. |
| 2) because Tewdar is tired. | 8) before his father was the leader. |
| 3) because his mother was on the stool. | 9) before his father is troubled. |
| 4) because his father is the leader. | 10) before there was a stool in the |
| 5) because Asser was the Bishop. | corner. |
| 6) because his grandfather is dead. | |

F. Drefenn and kyns with bos and pronoun subject.

In this case the English pronoun subject, in the form of a possessive adjective (Dyskans 14) comes after drefenn or kyns and before bos.

kyns y² vos re² dhiwedhes before its being too late (before it is too late) drefenn ow bos yn Kernow. because I am in Cornwall.

Exercise 6. Translate the following into Cornish.

- 1) because I am/was too late.
- 2) before you are too old.
- 3) because she is Tewdar’s mother.
- 4) before he was in the house.
- 5) because we are happy.
- 6) before you were an old man.
- 7) because he is Cornish.
- 8) before we are tired.
- 9) because he is dying.
- 10) because he was a friend of the English king.

Again, the Cornish phrase is the same, no matter what was the tense of the English clause.
