1 the future tense

(i) this is often the present tense in a future context:

my a dhe Druru a-vorow                      I am going to Truro tomorrow
 my a gerdh gans an ki diwettha      I'll walk the dog later

(ii) the verb gul is used as an auxiliary; the context will make it clear whether a future meaning is intended or an emphatic present

my a wra skrifa lyther pub seythen      I do write a letter each week
 my a wra skrifa lyther dy'Gwener      I shall write a letter on Friday

(iii) Very few verbs have a true future tense in Cornish. An exception is Bos to be bydhav	I shall be bydhydh	you will be bydh	he will be bydh	she will be

bydhyn	we shall be bydhowgh	you will be
bydhons	they will be

- the endings are the same as the standard present tense endings (for verbs other than bos!)
- there is no separate short or long form

When the b tenses of bos are preceded by the complement, the particle a is omitted, but second state mutation still takes place, just as if it were there.

Res vydh dhis mos dhe ves      You will have to go away.
 Lowen vydhav                      I shall be happy.

(iv) a few verbs are found in a nominal form

prena	my a brenvydh	I shall buy gweles	ty a welvydh	you will see
kara	ni a garvydh	we will love

2 dres eghen

Unlike the intensifying adjectives pur, mar and re which come before the adjective, dres eghen comes after it

Fest da	very good (no mutation)
Pur dha	very good
Mar dha	so good
Re dha	too good
Da dres eghen	exceedingly good

3 prag y ...? – why...?

The answer to why questions is because; rag, drefen and awos are all used but their use is not the same as in English

Prag y fynnonn i mos dhe'n treth?      Why do they want to go to the beach?
 I a vynn mos dhe'n treth drefen bos tomm an gewer.

They want to go to the beach because the weather is hot.

Prag y fynnonn mos?                      Why do they want to go?

Prag y hwre'ta hwerthin?              Why do you laugh?

Prag na vynnnonn mos?              Why don't they go?

Note Prag y<sup>5</sup>

b → f              d → t              g → h              gw → hw              m → f

Prag na<sup>2</sup>

Drefen bos glyb an gewer              Because the weather is/was wet

Drefen bos karr y'n fordh              Because the car is/was in the road

Drefen bos diwedhes an tren              Because the train is/was late

Drefen bos ow threys yeyn.              Because my feet are/were cold

Note there is no indication of tense in the Cornish construction, this has to be deduced from the context.

If the subject of the subordinate clause is a noun it comes after bos, if the subject is a pronoun it comes before and the subject pronoun is the same as the possessive adjective

ow <sup>3</sup>	dha <sup>2</sup>	y <sup>2</sup>	hy <sup>3</sup>	agan	agas	aga <sup>3</sup>
drefen bos glyb an gewer					drefen hy bos klav
drefen bos karr y'n fordh					drefen y vos y'n fordh
drefen bos diwedhes an tren					drefen y vos diwedhes
drefen bos ow threys yeyn.					drefen aga bos yeyn drefen hy bos klav					because she is/was ill drefen ow bos skwith					because I am/was tired
drefen agan bos diwedhes					because we are/were late

This construction with drefen may only be used with the verb bos in the present and imperfect tenses.

The negative is drefen na (causing a 2nd mutation) but note that awos may not be used in the negative. The construction in the negative is different: drefen na is followed by a verbal clause.

Ev a vydh a-varr hedhyw drefen nag yw ev skwith

He will be early today because he is not tired
