1 the pluperfect

The verbs in the passage in blue, bold font are in the pluperfect tense. As with the perfect tense (dyskans 30) the re particle is (usually) used in affirmative statements. The negative uses the usual ny particle so the tense must be understood from the context.

Gul		Bos
gwrussen	I had done	bien	I had been gwrusses	you had done	bies	you had been gwrussa	s/he had done	bia	s/he had been gwrussen	we had done	bien	we had been gwrussewgh	you had done	biewgh	you had been
gwrussens	they had done	biens	they had been

My re wrussa prena I had bought

An gewer re bia tomm the weather had been warm

Ny via an gewer tomm the weather had not been warm

My re bia ow prenassa I had been shopping

Ev re bia ow koslowes He had been listening

Ev re wrussa goslowes He had listened

Be careful with the difference between the last two examples: had been doing something and had done something

The endings of the verb in the pluperfect are generally regular:

-sen -ses -sa -sen -sewgh -sens

(note: they are the same as the imperfect with the addition of the s)

Don't forget the re particle causes a 2nd mutation except with bos

2 pan

This subordinating conjunction must be followed by the conjugated verb

3 ... ha bos

mos ha bos to become, only the verb mos is conjugated – an gwerthji eth ha bos chi the shop became a house

dos ha bos to happen to be, again only dos is conjugated and other verbs may be substituted for bos – my a dheuth ha prena an lyver I happened to buy the book

4 as ... as

Mar vras avel as big as

Mar wynn avel an ergh as white as snow (see dyskans 34 for other examples)

Remember mar causes a 2nd mutation

5 devedhys

This is the irregular past participle of dos. Devedhys an gorthugher = came the evening or more poetically 'and when the evening had come'
