1 The verb tyli (to pay). This is a useful verb. Beside the basic meaning of "to pay" it also means "to be worth," in the sense of:

Ober a dal y wul a dal y wul yn ta. A job worth doing is worth doing well.

It can also be used to translate "ought" or "must."

My a dal mos = I ought to/must go. (present)

My a dalvia mos = I ought to have gone. (pluperfect)

There is a separate future tense which has the endings of bos as does the conditional

Present tense		Imperfect tense
talav	I pay	telen	I used to pay
tylydh	you pay	teles	you used to pay
tal	s/he pays	tela	s/he used to pay
tylyn	we pay	telen	we used to pay
tylowgh	you pay	telewgh	you used to pay
talons	they pay	telens	they used to pay
Preterite tense		Conditional
tylis	I paid	talvien	I would pay
tylsys	you paid	talvies	you would pay
tylis	s/he paid	talvia	s/he would pay
tylsyn	we paid	talvien	we would pay
tylsowgh	you paid	talviewgh	you would pay
talsons	they paid	talviens	they would pay

The future: talvydhav, talvydhydh, talvydh, talvydhyn, talvydhowgh, talvydhons

2 Prepositions followed by “whom.” Sentences such as “The man to whom I spoke, stood up,” or, in more colloquial English, “The man I spoke to stood up.” can be expressed in Cornish in three ways:

- i) An den a gewsis vy orto a sevis.
The man whom I spoke to him stood up.
- ii) An den orto y kewsis vy a sevis.
The man to whom I spoke stood up.
- iii) An den may kewsis vy (orto) a sevis.
The man to whom I spoke (to him) stood up.

Here is another example:

The girl at whom I looked went away. (The girl I looked at went away)

- iv) An voves a viris orti eth dhe-ves.
The girl whom I looked at her went away.
- v) An voves orti y firis eth dhe-ves.
The girl at her I looked went away.
- vi) An voves may firis (orti) eth dhe-ves.
The girl at whom I looked (at her) went away.

In (i) a is used as a relative pronoun and is reinforced by the preposition combined with an agreeing pronoun and following the verb.

In (ii) the relative pronoun is omitted completely and is replaced by a personal pronoun combined with the preposition before the verb.

In (iii) may acts as a relative pronoun. The preposition combined with a reinforcing agreeing pronoun (orti etc.) after the verb is optional.

3 Prepositions followed by “which.” To translate phrases such as “with which,” “on which,” “in which,” “through which,” we use “may”:

Ni a welas an chi may triga y das (ynno)

We saw the house in which his father lived.

(“...the house his father lived in.” or ...the house where his father lived)

Yth esa toll may teuth logosenn (anodho)

There was a hole from which a mouse came.

(or: “...a mouse came out of.”)

Hi a gavas moes mayth esa botell (warnedhi)

She found a table on which there was a bottle.

The combined preposition and pronoun (anodho, warnedhi etc.) may be added if necessary for emphasis or clarification.
